2. Apply multi-disciplinary knowledge and understanding to adapt to new and uncertain situations and problems
3. Show commitment to ethical practice and recognize personal strengths and weaknesses
4. Recognize multi-cultural diversity and identify socio-cultural factors that contribute to the development of social problems
5. Communicate effectively and ethically with clients and people from all walks of life and develop abilities in collaborative team work
6. Show readiness to serve the needy in society through direct service provision, strategic research and policy advocacy

Degree Regulations & Syllabuses

REGULATIONS FOR THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF SOCIAL WORK (FULL-TIME) (BSW)

These regulations apply to students admitted to BSW curriculum in the academic year 2025-2026 and thereafter.

(See also General Regulations and Regulations for First Degree Curricula)

Definitions

BSW 1⁽¹⁾ In these Regulations, and in the Syllabuses for the degree of BSW, unless the context otherwise requires -

‘Core departments’ means the Departments of Geography, Politics and Public Administration, Psychology, Social Work and Social Administration, and Sociology.

‘Course’ means a course of study, with a credit value expressed as a number of credit-units as specified in the syllabus.

‘Credits’ means the value assigned to each course to indicate its study load relative to the total study load under a degree curriculum. The study load refers to the hours of student learning activities and experiences, both within and outside the classrooms, and includes contact hours and time spent on assessment tasks and examinations.

‘Prerequisite’ means a course or a group of courses which candidates must have completed successfully or a requirement which candidates must have fulfilled before being permitted to take the course in question.

Admission to the degree

BSW 2 To be eligible for admission to the degree of Bachelor of Social Work candidates shall

- (a) comply with the General Regulations;
 - (b) comply with the Regulations for First Degree Curricula; and
 - (c) complete the curriculum in accordance with the regulations that follow.

Period of study

BSW 3 The curriculum shall normally require eight semesters of full-time study, extending over not fewer than four academic years, and shall include any assessment to be held during and/or at the end of each semester. Candidates shall not in any case be permitted to extend their studies beyond the maximum period of registration of six academic years.

⁽¹⁾ This regulation should be read in conjunction with UG1 of the Regulations for First Degree Curricula.

Completion of the curriculum

BSW 4

- (a) Candidates shall satisfy the requirements prescribed in UG5 of the Regulations for First Degree Curricula⁽²⁾.
- (b) Candidates shall complete not fewer than 240 credits of courses.
- (c) Candidates shall follow the required number of compulsory and elective courses as prescribed in the syllabuses, including a Professional Core of 150 credits, comprising 138 credits of required courses offered by the Department of Social Work and Social Administration and two 6-credit introductory courses, one each offered by the Department of Sociology and the Department of Psychology.
- (d) Candidates shall normally be required to take not fewer than 24 credits nor more than 30 credits in any one semester (except the summer semester) unless otherwise permitted or required by the Board of the Faculty, or except in the final semester of study when the number of outstanding credits required to complete the curriculum requirements may be fewer than 24 credits.
- (e) Candidates may, of their own volition, take additional credits not exceeding 6 credits in each semester, and/or further credits during the summer semester, accumulating up to a maximum of 72 credits in one academic year. With the special permission of the Board of the Faculty, candidates may exceed the annual study load of 72 credits in a given academic year provided that the total number of credits taken does not exceed the maximum curriculum study load of 288 credits for the normative period of study specified in BSW3, save as provided for under BSW4(f).
- (f) Where candidates are required to make up for failed credits, the Board of the Faculty may give permission for candidates to exceed the annual study load of 72 credits provided that the total number of credits taken does not exceed the maximum curriculum study load of 432 credits for the maximum period of registration specified in BSW3.
- (g) Candidates shall normally enrol in not more than 108 credits of introductory courses in the first three years of study.
- (h) Candidates shall not enrol in any introductory courses in the final year of study.

Selection of courses

BSW 5 Candidates who wish to change their selection of courses at the beginning of each semester may do so up to 2 weeks after the commencement of the semester. Requests for changes beyond the 2-week deadline will not be permitted, except for medical or other reasons accepted by the Faculty Board. Candidates' withdrawal from any course without permission will result in a fail grade.

Assessment

BSW 6 Candidates shall be assessed for each of the courses for which they have registered, and assessment may be conducted in any combination of continuous assessment of coursework, written examinations and/or any other assessable activities. Only passed courses will earn credits. Grades shall be awarded in accordance with UG8(a) of the Regulations for First Degree Curricula.

BSW 7 Candidates are required to make up for failed courses in the following manner

- i) undergoing re-assessment/re-examination in the failed course to be held no later than the end of the following semester (not including the summer semester); or
- ii) re-submitting failed coursework, without having to repeat the same course of instruction; or
- iii) repeating the failed course by undergoing instruction and satisfying the assessments; or
- iv) for elective courses, taking another course in lieu and satisfying the assessment requirements.

⁽²⁾ Specific requirements are spelt out in the syllabuses.

BSW 8 Candidates shall not be permitted to repeat a course for which they have received a D grade or above for the purpose of upgrading.

Discontinuation of studies

BSW 9 Unless otherwise permitted by the Board of the Faculty, candidates shall be recommended for discontinuation of their studies if they have:

- i) failed to complete 36 or more credits in two consecutive semesters (not including the summer semester), except where they are not required to take such a number of credits in the two given semesters; or
 - ii) failed to achieve an average Semester GPA of 1.0 or higher for two consecutive semesters (not including the summer semester); or
 - iii) exceeded the maximum period of registration specified in BSW3.

Absence from examination

BSW 10 Candidates who are unable, because of illness, to be present at the written examination of any course may apply for permission to present themselves at a supplementary examination of the same course to be held before the beginning of the first semester of the following academic year. Any such application shall normally be made on the form prescribed within seven calendar days of the candidate's absence from any examination. Any supplementary examination shall be part of that academic year's examinations, and the provisions made in the regulations for failure at the first attempt shall apply accordingly.

Advanced standing

BSW 11 Advanced standing may be granted to candidates in recognition of studies completed successfully before admission to the University in accordance with UG 2 of the Regulations for First Degree Curricula. Credits gained for advanced standing will not be included in the calculation of the GPA but will be recorded on the transcript of the candidate.

Credit transfer

BSW 12 Candidates may, with the approval of the Board of the Faculty, transfer credits for courses completed at other institutions at any time during their candidature. The number of transferred credits may be recorded in the transcript of the candidate, but the results of courses completed at other institutions shall not be included in the calculation of the GPA. The number of credits to be transferred shall not exceed half of the total credits normally required under the degree curricula of the candidates during their candidature at the University.

Award of the degree

BSW 13 To be eligible for award of the degree of BSW, candidates shall have:

- (a) achieved a Graduation GPA of 1.00 or above;
 - (b) passed courses of a minimum of 240 credits; and
 - (c) satisfied the requirements in UG5 of the Regulations for First Degree Curricula.

Honours classification

BSW14

- (a) Honours classification shall be awarded in five divisions: First Class Honours, Second Class Honours Division One, Second Class Honours Division Two, Third Class Honours, and Pass. The classification of honours shall be determined by the Board of Examiners for the degree in accordance with the following Graduation GPA scores (GGPA), with all courses taken (including failed courses) carrying weightings which are proportionate to their credit values⁽³⁾:

Class of honours	CGPA range
First Class Honours	3.60 – 4.30
Second Class Honours	(2.40 – 3.59)
Division One	3.00 – 3.59
Division Two	2.40 – 2.99
Third Class Honours	1.70 – 2.39
Pass	1.00 – 1.69

- (b) Honours classification may not be determined solely on the basis of a candidate's Graduation GPA and the Board of Examiners for the degree may, at its absolute discretion and with justification, award a higher class of honours to a candidate deemed to have demonstrated meritorious academic achievement but whose Graduation GPA falls below the range stipulated in BSW14(a) of the higher classification by not more than 0.1 Grade Point.
- (c) A list of candidates who have successfully completed all the degree requirements shall be posted on Faculty noticeboards.

SYLLABUSES FOR THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF SOCIAL WORK

1. Objectives

The Department of Social Work and Social Administration in the Faculty of Social Sciences offers an undergraduate curriculum of professional studies in Social Work, leading to the Degree of Bachelor of Social Work (BSW). The degree curriculum has the following objectives:

- To graduate social workers committed to pursue academic and professional excellence to advance social justice;
- To develop fully the competence in leadership and advocacy of students for them to improve the human condition through service provision and research;
- To develop a stimulating and supportive learning environment that cultivates students' ability to implement ethical and reflective practice based on analysis of theories and evidence;
- To promote students' awareness of the social inclusion perspective and develop their competence for working with people from diverse cultural and ethnic backgrounds in building local and global communities;
- To apply inter-disciplinary knowledge to tackle ever-changing situations and problems through

⁽³⁾ For students in the 2056-26 intake and thereafter who have successfully completed six Common Core courses, the calculation of Graduation GPA is subject to the proviso that either five Common Core courses with the highest grades (covering all four Areas of Inquiry), or all six courses will be counted towards Graduation GPA, depending on which generates the higher Graduation GPA

- collaboration with the community, NGOs, service users and other social institutions;
 - To equip social work graduates with essential knowledge, values and skills of becoming effective team players and responsive leaders to enhance collaboration for productive engagement and social action.

2. Curriculum requirements

The regulations specify the requirements with which candidates have to comply for completion of the BSW degree curriculum. For the fulfilment of Regulation UG5 “Requirements for Graduation” of the Regulations for First Degree Curricula, candidates shall complete successfully the three language enhancement courses and six Common Core Courses from different Areas of Inquiry.

The curriculum of the degree of Bachelor of Social Work normally extends over a period of four academic years. Candidates are required to follow instruction through the medium of lectures, workshops, laboratory work, small group tutorials and field instruction etc.

Candidates may opt for a minor, which is defined as completing not fewer than 36 credits of courses in a particular programme including all pre-requisites unless specified. Candidates may opt for a minor offered by the Faculty of Social Sciences or other Faculties.

(For the detailed requirements and course descriptions of minors, please refer to the syllabuses of the respective programmes)

3. Course registration

Course registration will take place before the commencement of each semester. Candidates are advised to consult relevant teachers or Heads of Departments on the suitable combinations of courses and to adhere closely to the normal study pattern. Less suitable combinations of courses may not be permitted because of timetabling difficulties. Courses listed in the syllabuses may not necessarily be offered every year; depending on the exigencies of staffing, additional courses may be offered.

Candidates may change their course selection during the two-week add/drop period which is scheduled at the beginning of each semester. Requests for changes beyond the 2-week deadline will not be permitted, except for medical or other reasons acceptable by the Faculty Board. Candidates’ withdrawal from any course without permission will result in a fail grade. In course registration, candidates should pay special attention to the pre-requisite and co-requisite requirements of courses as specified in the syllabuses. A prerequisite is a course which candidates must have successfully completed in accordance with the conditions stipulated by the Head of Department before being permitted to take a course in question. A co-requisite is a course which candidates must take at the same time as the course in question.

4. Coursework and examination ratio

Unless otherwise specified, the examination for each 6-credit course consists of a two-hour written examination paper. The final grading will be determined by performance in the examination and an assessment of coursework in the ratio of 60:40, unless otherwise specified.

INTRODUCTORY COURSES

Language Enhancement Courses

CSSC9001. Practical Chinese for Social Sciences Students (6 credits)

Featuring problem-based learning (PBL) and collaborative learning approaches, this course aims to help students, through seminars and cases-based workshops, develop the ability to use the Chinese language effectively in the workplace. A key focus is on the use of Putonghua in presenting information for audiences. Essential techniques for producing office documents as well as reports will be discussed. Training in reading and writing the correct forms of traditional and simplified Chinese characters will also be provided.

Assessment: 70% coursework, 30% examination.

CUND9001. Basic Spoken and Written Cantonese for Mandarin Speakers (for Putonghua-speaking students) (6 credits)

This intensive Cantonese language course is designed for Mandarin (Putonghua) speakers who have no prior knowledge of Cantonese. The course aims to assist students in mastering Jyutping, the Cantonese romanization system, while simultaneously cultivating students' ability to communicate effectively in Cantonese, both orally and in written form, across a variety of situational conversations. Throughout the course, students will be exposed to practical sentence structures and a wide range of useful vocabulary related to various aspects of daily life. Furthermore, the curriculum allows students to gain insight into Hong Kong culture.

Assessment: 70% coursework, 30% examination.

CUND9002. Practical Chinese and Hong Kong Society (for Putonghua-speaking students) (6 credits)

This course is specifically designed for the students from the Mainland. With Putonghua as the medium of instruction, it aims to underscore the characteristic styles and formats of practical Chinese writings in the workplace context in Hong Kong. Topics addressing the rhetorical strategies for reader-oriented professional writings are included to strengthen the students' command of the language. In the "Chinese Characters" component, drilling practices provide ample opportunity for the students to learn to convert simplified characters into their traditional forms. The evolution of Cantonese and the lexical and phonetic systems of this dialect will be explored. The local history and culture of Hong Kong will also be considered. On-site visits are organized to deepen the students' understanding of local traditions and, more importantly, to enhance their ability to appreciate and accept cultural and regional differences.

Assessment: 50% coursework, 50% examination.

CUND9003. Cantonese for non-Cantonese Speaking Students (for Putonghua-speaking students) (6 credits)

Through a comparative analysis of Putonghua and Cantonese, this course enables students to learn the characteristics of Hong Kong Chinese, to discover the differences in vocabulary and expression between the Cantonese dialect and Mandarin, to strengthen their communication skills in everyday life, and to have a proper understanding of the culture, traditions and people in Hong Kong.

Assessment: 60% coursework, 40% examination.

CUND9004. Practical Applied Chinese Writing and Effective Presentation Skills for Non-local Mandarin Speaking Students (for Putonghua-speaking students) (6 credits)

This course aims to cultivate non-local Mandarin-speaking students' logical thinking and critical thinking skills. Through the exploration of various interdisciplinary knowledge topics, students are encouraged to analyze and evaluate information, such as a variety of the essays mainly focusing on the important social and economic issues, as well as the movies released between 1995 and the present. The students will also be provided with opportunities to engage in writing, group discussions and presentation, allowing them to practice their critical thinking skills and develop their ability to express their thoughts effectively using Mandarin. This course will construct a coherent, sustainable, and in-depth content to help students build strong arguments, enhance their lexical and syntactic knowledge, as well as enhance their ability to analyze information, construct well-reasoned arguments, and make informed decisions.

Assessment: 70% coursework, 30% examination.

CHIN9501. Chinese as a Foreign Language I (6 credits)

This intensive course is intended for international undergraduate students, exchange and visiting students who have no prior knowledge of Chinese language. It aims to build a solid foundation for students wishing to go on to more advanced levels of language study and indepth study of Chinese culture and society. It familiarizes students with the phonetic system of Putonghua, i.e. Hanyu Pinyin System. Students will learn pronunciation, tones, and basic patterns so as to speak short sentences and carry basic conversations on the familiar topics accurately and clearly. Students with no prior knowledge of Chinese characters must master 100 commonly used simplified Chinese characters (Hanzi, 汉字)*. The course emphasizes overall development in all four language skills in addition to Chinese word processing.

*Note: Chinese characters will not be specifically taught in class but will be an integrated part of the course. Students with no prior knowledge of Chinese characters must study 100 commonly used simplified Chinese characters on their own by following the learning plan and e-learning materials via the posted on Moodle.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

CHIN9511. Cantonese as a Foreign Language I (6 credits)

This intensive course is intended for foreign learners who have no prior knowledge of Cantonese. The course introduces students to present-day Cantonese, with an emphasis on learning correct pronunciation through the Jyutping phonetic romanization transcription system and basic structure. It aims to develop fundamental oral communication skills through a variety of situational conversations in a highly interactive classroom.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

CHIN9521. The Fundamentals of Chinese Characters (6 credits)

This intensive course is intended for international students whose mother tongue is not Chinese. It is designed to introduce the origins and evolution of Chinese characters. The formation and the structure of Chinese characters will be emphasized to help students to break the puzzles of Chinese written form. This course also familiarizes students with the distinctive features of the Chinese characters as a means to introduce them to the unique characteristics of the Chinese language and culture. Students will be equipped with the writing skills to copy any Chinese characters in correct stroke-order and will be familiar with the commonly used components of combined characters after this course. The course will teach up to 220 Chinese characters and about 350 compound words. Students are taught how to use Chinese dictionaries in order to continue learning Chinese characters by themselves.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

CHIN9522. Exploration of Major Cultural Themes across Chinese History (6 credits)

A history and culture course that familiarizes students with China and its past, approached from non traditional perspectives. The course introduces international students to Chinese history, schools of thoughts, cultural themes and achievements in Chinese civilization; highlights differences and similarities between Chinese and other cultures; stimulates students' interest in deeper understanding of China, its people, its history and its culture in the global context. Students are required to make presentations on assigned topics.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

CAES1001. Academic Communication in English (non-credit bearing)

The course is designed to equip first-year undergraduate students with a solid foundation in academic English literacy to succeed in their university studies. The course is dedicated to nurturing students' competencies in an English-medium university environment and fostering their confidence in effective oral, written, and visual communication. This is achieved by cultivating students' critical reading skills, information literacy skills, and digital literacy skills for academic English learning. The course also provides students with a comprehensive understanding of academic rhetoric across different mediums, including written, spoken, and visual tasks. By familiarizing students with the key genres and communication conventions in university education, the course empowers students to apply the acquired knowledge and skills to Common Core Courses.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

Core Courses

SOWK1002. Introduction to social work (6 credits)

The course introduces the basic principles and concepts of social work. Students will obtain an understanding of the philosophy, knowledge and values which form the base for social work practice, social work as a profession, and the role of the social worker in modern society.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK1004. Human behaviour and the social environment (I) (6 credits)

This course introduces a holistic approach to an exploration of typical patterns of development from infancy to old age. Social and familial conditions affecting growth at different stages in the life-cycle will be studied, together with related problems of adaptation and adjustment.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK1008. Social welfare system and social policy (6 credits)

This course introduces the basic concepts and function of social welfare and social services, and the principles and methods of social policy and social planning. Analysis will be undertaken on a range of social services in Hong Kong such as housing, health, labour, education, social security and social welfare services including family, children and youth, community development, rehabilitation, elderly and other relevant services. Students taking the course will also acquire an understanding of the philosophy, mechanism and processes of policy making and planning, the methods of analysing and evaluating social policy.

The two courses, SOWK1001 Introduction to social administration and SOWK1008 Social welfare system and social policy, are mutually exclusive. Students can only enrol in either one of these two courses within their whole course of study.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK1009. The reflective practitioner (6 credits)

Social work practice is carried out through interactions between social workers and individuals, families, organizations and society. Social workers are inevitably shaped by their own experiences, beliefs, upbringing and culture, which might affect their interactions with these systems. This course encourages the students to start the reflective journey in visiting issues of self in relation to the perceived identity, intimacy, loss, family, and society. Through reflective exercises, discussions, and assigned readings, the students will develop a deeper understanding of their values, philosophy of life and behaviors, and how these in turn impact social work practice. The course adopts an active-learning and experiential approach.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

PSYC1001. Introduction to psychology (6 credits)

Discussion of basic concepts in psychology and a preliminary survey of representative work carried out in various areas of psychological investigation, together with an investigation at some length of one such area.

Assessment: 100% coursework

SOCI1001. Introduction to sociology (6 credits)

This course introduces students to the nature of sociological enquiry and the basic concepts used in sociological analysis. After some reference to the influence of inheritance and environment on human social behaviour, the course will focus on key concepts used in the analysis of cultures, social structures, social processes and social change. The relationship between research, concepts and contemporary theory will be explored at an introductory level.

SOCI1003. Introduction to anthropology (6 credits)

This course will explore, through cross-cultural comparison, key social and cultural issues, such as marriage and the family, caste and class, ethnicity and identity, language and culture, state formation, economic values, gender and religion. The course will draw on studies of the peoples and cultures of Asia.

Assessment: 100% coursework

SOCI1004. Introduction to sociology: the world's on fire (and other problems) (6 credits)

Sociology is a tricky subject because it is so diverse – and indeed what Sociologists can (and do!) study is absolutely ubiquitous, from what we eat or wear to the predictors of revolution. Given this diversity, the goal of our course is foremost to get you acquainted with a sociological way of thinking, and to help you apply this way of thinking to the social issues that interest you. The course will help you acquire these tools by introducing you to some of the core sociological themes. In lectures, we will also systematically investigate and apply these themes to the issue of climate change – thereby demonstrating how the sociological imagination can be used to understand an important social problem. In tutorials and in your assignments, you will then be invited to apply your new sociological imagination to issues of your own choosing.

Assessment: 100% coursework

ADVANCED COURSES

Language Enhancement Courses

CAES9925. Academic and Professional Literacies in Social Work (6 credits)

This 6-credit course aims to help students learn about the writing style and language demands of professional writing in the social work settings. The course involves discussion of the principles and practice of writing social work documents such as summaries, reports, and proposals. Students will analyse the writing style and linguistic features of a range of sample social work documents, and learn the skills of organising and presenting information effectively using appropriate rhetorical devices and professional vocabulary.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

Core courses

SOWK2008. Human behaviour and the social environment (II) (6 credits)

This course studies a spectrum of disturbed behaviours, from concepts of normality, abnormality, classification and assessment, to the clinical syndromes: neuroses, psychoses, personality disorders, psycho-physiologic disorders, organic brain syndromes, and mental retardation; sociopathy, sexual deviations and drug abuses; and behavioural disorders of childhood and adolescence.

SOWK2109. Working with ethnically diverse communities in Hong Kong (6 credits)

Throughout Hong Kong's history it has been a cosmopolitan city where people arrived in the territory from across the globe as colonisers, merchants, soldiers, low paid manual workers, domestic workers, professionals or for family reunion thus starting at different rungs of the social ladder. This gave rise to its multicultural flavour and justifiably becoming 'Asia's world city'. However, not all migrants have benefited from this miraculous growth. Some were pushed to the margins, excluded or made invisible. This course benefits those who work with members of ethnic minority communities, intending to do so or who are curious about racial discrimination and multiculturalism in Hong Kong. Topics discussed include stigma, discrimination and prejudice in the context of history, gender, culture and religion of members of ethnic minority communities, new arrivals or immigrant families. Lectures, group and panel discussions as well as field visits will constitute the learning process.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK2111. Addictive behaviour (6 credits)

This course introduces the growing body of knowledge on pathological addictive behaviours. Topics to be covered include drug abuse, alcoholism, computer addiction, and compulsive buying. Various models on the biological, psychological, and social factors related to the course of addiction will be explored.

Assessment, treatment, and prevention strategies will also be discussed.

SOWK2112. Working with special target populations (6 credits)

With increasing complexity in the Hong Kong society and the attendant problems faced by various groups of people, there is need to devise specific approaches in alleviating their problems. This course covers selected topics that pertain to the understanding of the characteristics and needs of special populations, and introduces relevant working approaches for practitioners and social policy analysts.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK2113. Special topics in social work practice (6 credits)

The Hong Kong society and the world at large have unfolded multifarious new social phenomena that pose new challenges to professional social work practice. The social work professional community has to develop new insights in understanding the nature of such problems and challenges, and accordingly devise timely and appropriate intervention to address these issues. This course covers selected topics that meet acute societal needs, or are of current interest or on the cutting edge of knowledge advancement in social work. Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK2114. Special interventions: theories and techniques (6 credits)

In dealing with the increasing complexity of problems handled by the social work professionals, the social work community across the globe has developed new theories and techniques in practice. This course covers intervention models that are of current interest in social work. The key concepts and techniques of the models, and their development in terms of empirical base will also be discussed. Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK2118. Child maltreatment and protection (6 credits)

Every child has the right to a life free from violence. Unfortunately, millions of children around the world are the victims of physical, sexual and emotional abuse, as well as global neglect. Child maltreatment is a serious public health problem with a negative impact on the victims, their families and societies as a whole. This course examines the prevalence and risk factors of child maltreatment. Effective prevention and intervention strategies will also be investigated. Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK2119. Mediation and negotiation (6 credits)

The nature of interpersonal conflicts and strategies of conflict resolution will be examined in this course. The key elements of negotiation and mediation will be reviewed from different perspectives. Students will learn basic skills of negotiation and mediation. A win-win strategy in the conflict resolution process will be emphasized. Assessment: 100% coursework

SOWK2120. Counselling in business setting (6 credits)

This course equips students with relevant knowledge and skills of counselling applicable to business settings. Some prominent approaches in helping people to change and/or solve their problems through the use of counselling strategies in the business settings will be introduced. An emphasis is placed on the application of counselling in helping people working in the business environments. Topics include the concepts of employee assistance, the needs of counselling in business settings, the applications of counselling in both profit-making and non-profit-making organizations, boundary and limitations. Assessment: 100% coursework

SOWK2121. Counselling in human resource development and training (6 credits)

This course introduces concepts and strategies in human resource development and training will be introduced. Students will be equipped with the techniques in conducting need assessment, team building, effective communication, problem solving and decision making, crisis management and customer relationship management. Experiential approach is emphasized in this course to enhance students' experience and competence in implementing human resource development and training.

SOWK2127. Theory and practice of employment assistance services (6 credits)

Employment assistance service (EAS) has become one of the major social work interventions in Hong Kong. Billions of resources have been invested in enhancing the work capacity as well as employability of Hong Kong's workforce every year through various departments (e.g. Vocational Training Council, and Employees Retraining Board) and NGOs. A significant portion of social workers are actively engaging in employment related services such as development of a return to work action plan for the CSSA recipients, sharing labour market information and improving job search skills for the trainees of ERB's placement-tile programmes and so on. This course provides basic training in theory and practice to social work students so that they will be equipped to become a competent social worker in providing employment assistance services soon after they are recruited into the employment related departments or agencies.

SOWK2135. Theory and practice in family counselling (6 credits)

This course examines family counselling issues relating to intimacy, dependency, parenthood, attachment, power and conflict. The emphasis is on clinical relevance and practice wisdom, guided by the culturally relevant knowledge of the Chinese family system. Students will participate in clinical demonstrations, experiential learning and role plays so as to develop practice competence on assessment, formulation of intervention strategies, and direct intervention in working with the issues arising from personal vulnerabilities, societal pressures, communication impasses, intimacy problems, or inter-generational clashes.

Pre-requisite: SOWK2137. Theories in counselling or
SOWK3108. Foundation of social work practice II

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK2136. Fathering and fatherhood: Social work with fathers (6 credits)

The issue of gender-based social work intervention, with the emphasis of working with fathers, is examined through multiple lenses. A critical analysis of the current theories and literature on gender socialization, the development of fatherhood, the etiology of physical health, mental health, and emotion of men who are in the role of a father will be conducted. The course will identify effective intervention and prevention strategies in working with fathers. The purpose of this course is for social work students to gain the knowledge and skills necessary to understand the dynamics of fathering and fatherhood, to conduct gender-sensitive clinical assessments, and to identify appropriate intervention strategies.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK2209. Issues and interventions in mental health settings (6 credits)

This course enhances the students' basic understanding of mental illness by focusing on alternative definitions of mental illness, cross-cultural considerations, etiology, and intervention strategies. The diversity of roles of the professionals in team work with the mentally ill within the Hong Kong context will also be examined.

Prerequisite: SOWK1004. Human behaviour and the social environment (I)

Assessment: 100% coursework

SOWK2213. Social work practice with selected target groups or in specific settings (6 credits)

This course focuses on the practice of social work with selected target groups such as children, youth and delinquents, alcoholics and drug addicts, or in specific settings such as school, hospital, youth centres and correctional facilities. For each group or setting, attention will be focused on gaining a comprehensive understanding of the nature of the problems encountered and the role of social work in solving such problems. Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK3142. Compassionate mind and practice: Paths to healing and growth (6 credits)

Pain and suffering are universal experiences that often lead individuals to seek counselling. How can practitioners effectively attend to and endure suffering, while fostering growth and flourishing in the face of distress? Compassion may offer a guiding light. In this experiential course, students will learn about the compassion-oriented approach that centers on the evolutionary perspective of our emotion systems and the flows of compassion. They will explore the fear of compassion and practice some evidence-based strategies for developing a compassionate mind to support growth and wellbeing in daily life and counselling contexts. The learning experience will enable students to engage in compassion through awareness, practices and in depth reflection for applying it meaningfully in their personal and professional lives.

Pre-requisite: SOWK2107. Foundation of social work practice I or
SOWK2138. Foundation skills in counselling

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK3033. Working with youth at risk and juvenile offenders (6 credits)

This course focuses on the various approaches in working with delinquents and young people experiencing emotional or behavioural problems. To facilitate skills development, emphasis will be placed on experiential learning through the use of simulated exercises, games and role-play. Throughout the course, case and group examples will be drawn from a variety of local practice settings-probation, residential facilities for juvenile offenders, correctional services, outreach and school social work.

Assessment: 100% coursework

SOWK3060. Career skills training (6 credits)

Success in one's career is one of the most important life tasks for most people. Besides teaching students the necessary knowledge and practice of core career skills, this course also trains students to design and conduct career skills programmes. Through participation in this course, students will be able to master the theories and skills of career planning, understand the relationship between labour market dynamics and job searching, analyse the effect of social, economic and political changes on the job market. Through understanding the social psychology of career aspects, students will become more sensitive to human dynamics in the work setting.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK3066. Care management (6 credits)

Care management is a major practice strategy to promote effective service delivery to diverse target populations. It is based on the notion that human service practitioners often work with people who have multiple needs. The major outcomes of care management are better integration of services provided by a cluster of organizations and community of care. This course covers the role of care management in the human services; the method and functions of care management in both direct and indirect services; and the monitoring and evaluation functions of care management practice.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK3087. Counseling for emotional and relational competence (6 credits)

This course is for all who want to be emotionally and relationally competent in human interaction, be it in the family, at work, with friends, or with neighbors. Training on enhancing capability to be present here and now as well as developing mutually satisfying and meaningful relationships. This course is primarily experiential and practice oriented, integrating the philosophy, science and art of intra and interpersonal competence into real life applications. Recent thinking in philosophy, psychology, group work, and neuroscience will be applied to working with intense emotions, inner blocks and inconsistencies, dilemmas and relational conflicts that haunt human encounters. Through class demonstrations, paired and small group practice, students will come to acquire concepts and skills that will guide them in facing the daily test of human interaction, help them advance their listening skills, increase self-understanding, gain confidence in decision-making, achieve relational transformation, connect with their deeper spiritual self, and affirm a more attuned, grounded, steady, and creative presence.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK3089. Integrative counselling methods in action: Theories, practices and research (6 credits)

It is all too common for people to experience difficulty obtaining counselling that is integrative, culturally competent, and responsive to their complex needs. This course introduces students to the principles and direct practice of integrated counselling methods, based on the integration of Western counselling principles and wisdoms from traditional Eastern philosophies. This course also introduces students to the essential knowledge to effectively address the spectrum of psychological and behavioral problems they will face in their daily life. Students will become knowledgeable of the principles of integrative counselling methods, cross-cultural health issues, and the application of evidence-based complementary and alternative medicine practices across a range of health-related conditions and across different workplace settings. This course also emphasizes the development of integrative counselling skill sets, which are practical, easy-to-learn, and highly transferrable to different people in different settings. Through the use of case vignettes, small group discussions, and experiential learning activities, students will develop essential integrative counselling skills which can be applied in their daily life as ways of stress coping, health enhancement, and to achieve personal growth.

SOWK3093. Play therapy (6 credits)

This course introduces the class to the use of play therapy in working with children, adolescents and families. The students will be presented with the essential elements and principles of play therapy, including historical development, theoretical modalities, basic techniques and applications.

Pre-requisite: SOWK2107. Foundation of social work practice I or
SOWK2137. Theories in counselling

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK3096. Solution-focused therapy (6 credits)

“Judging by its popularity, solution-focused therapy may be the treatment for our times. Now one of the most widely used psychotherapy approaches in the world (Trepper, Dolan, McCollum, & Nelson, 2006) ... Its pragmatic focus on coping, rather than curing, has made it applicable to almost any problem seen by therapist.” (Nichols, & Schwartz, 2008, p.368) Solution-focused therapy advocates that the core role of a therapist is to help client to construct their solution instead of figure out what are the causes of the problem. Solution-focused therapists argue that it isn't necessary to know what causes problems in order to make things better. Their emphasis is on what works, not what doesn't work. Therefore, it is the solution talk, not problem talk, is the direction of solution focused therapists. The course will introduce the theoretical background, basic assumptions, core working principles, and hall mark techniques of the Solution-focused therapy.

SOWK3097. Trauma, resilience, and growth (6 credits)

From natural disaster to human inflicted violence - landslides, tsunami, earthquake, terrorist attacks, traffic accidents, witness a murder, assaults by a total stranger, domestic violence by a love one, bullying by a classmate... the list goes on and on. Increasingly, traumatic events and the resulting stress have become part of the reality of life. While some of us may have experienced a traumatic event personally, many more witnessed or heard about these events happening around them. Recognizing the impact of traumatic event on a person and understanding the person's post-traumatic reactions is important for both human service professionals and lay persons. This course provides an overview of the study of traumatic stress. Topics covered in this course include the historical development and major theoretical perspectives of trauma research, symptoms and presentation of trauma survivors, post-traumatic stress and growth, treatments available and their research evidence.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK3106. Use of creative arts in social work practice (6 credits)

This course introduces the theories of creative arts as healing and illustrates the use of creative arts in local social work contexts, including individual or group counseling setting and community development setting. It is a practical course with hands-on experience to the use of creative arts in expression, communication and healing. Creative arts are action-oriented and process-focused. The development of skills and use of creative arts for self-exploration go simultaneously in this course. Students will have the opportunity to experiment with the use of arts for creative exploration and self-understanding. Different arts media will be introduced, including visual art, craft work, music, sounds, dramatic exercises, spontaneous movement and writing. The students will synthesize their personal experience with conceptual learning through experiential activities, live demonstration, listening exercise, case studies, video analysis and sharing. This course is not a formal creative arts therapy training, but offers opportunities for exploring the resources of creative arts in social work context.

SOWK3110. Counselling for older adults and their families (6 credits)

This is a practice course for students who are interested in gaining knowledge and skills of counselling older people and their families. A multidimensional framework including the bio-psychosocial, developmental, family, ecological and spiritual perspectives will be adopted for assessment and intervention. The challenges and coping of the individual older adults and their families in face of the common 3Ds – depression, dementia and death will be examined in the context of care giving. Concepts about intimacy and connectedness in the dynamics of aged couples and also those between the adult children and their aged parents will be discussed. Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK3115. Frontiers in interventions around death, dying and bereavement (6 credits)

There are more than a hundred deaths each day in Hong Kong, but death is a taboo for most for us. The unfamiliarity towards death induces a sense of anxiety when this topic is brought up to us. Death-related problem is one of the commonest issues that clients bring to counselling, but is often rated as the most uncomfortable scenario by beginning counsellors. This course is designed for students with an interest in understanding death, dying and bereavement. It offers a close examination on the challenges individuals, families and service providers face surrounding life-threatening illness and death. Theories and intervention strategies on end-of-life and bereavement care are reviewed. The course increases students' competence in working with clients facing death, dying, loss and trauma.

Assessment: 100% coursework

SOWK3131. Encounter with embodiment: Therapeutic use of drama in social work settings (6 credits)

This course gives students an opportunity to understand the therapeutic use of drama (TUD) in social work setting in both micro and macro contexts. This incorporates the philosophies and approaches of certain key psychologists, psychotherapists, and applied drama practitioners such as Humanistic Approach, Existentialism Psychotherapy, Individual and Group Psychotherapy, Developmental Transformations Drama Therapy, Sesame Drama & Movement Therapy, Psychodrama Psychotherapy, Jungian Analytical Psychology, Playback Theatre and Forum Theatre. Through lectures and experiential activities, students can have basic understanding of the concepts and theories, as well as reflections on how the approaches have worked for them and the application in social work setting. Although the course does not aim at training students to be therapists or specialists in any of the approaches, students can understand different therapeutic frames and elements so to integrate into their social work professions. It also provides students a picture for further academic development in these areas.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK3134. Cognitive behavioural therapy for common mental health problems (6 credits)

This course provides an in-depth overview of cognitive behavioural therapy for common mental health problems, specifically on depression and anxiety. This aims to provide the foundation for aspiring clinicians to-be in the provision of effective cognitive behavioural treatment. This course begins with a review of the fundamental theoretical concepts and assumption on cognitive behavioural therapy. Students are expected to learn how to conceptualize cases, apply a broad spectrum of cognitive and behavioural skills, and to assist clients to attain therapeutic changes. Case examples will be utilized, where students can engage in role-play and detailed class discussions.

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK3141. Contemporary complementary and alternative psychosocial interventions for people with physical and mental health needs (6 credits)

As the society is aging and there are growing needs of different populations with various needs such as Special Educational Needs (SEN), dementia, and mixed mood disorders. In addition to the existing psychotherapeutic evidence-based methods, i.e., talk therapies, emerging complementary and alternative interventions (CAI) are of high demand nowadays for human services to those under-served or non-responsive individuals in the society. Animal assisted therapy, aromatherapy, ecotherapy, horticultural therapy, meditation, mindfulness and yoga etc. are some of the commonly sought CAIs. The proposed course aims at providing students with a broad range of knowledge in popular CAIs and their applications in the human service field.

Pre-requisite: SOWK2137. Theories in counselling or
SOWK2138. Foundation skills in counselling

Assessment: 100% coursework.

SOWK3301. Advanced group work (6 credits)

The small group as a mode of social work intervention will be considered as it relates to the treatment of a range of behavioural and interpersonal problems. Selected group work models, group development, and group dynamics will be reviewed in relation to the students' current fieldwork experiences.

Prerequisite: SOWK3108 Foundation of social work practice II

Assessment: 100% coursework

SOWK3307. Working with families (6 credits)

This course examines the concept of a 'family perspective' and assists students in gaining an understanding of the major approaches to working with families. Theories on family, methods of assessment, and a range of strategies and techniques for effective intervention with the family as well as their applicability to the local context will also be considered.

Prerequisite: SOWK2107. Foundation of social work practice I or
SOWK2137. Theories in counselling

Assessment: 100% coursework.

Free Electives

Students may need to take 36 credits, including at least 24 credits at advanced level, of electives to make up the total curriculum load, and that the credits taken can be offered by any Faculty.

Note: Not all the elective courses will be offered in each year. The arrangement will depend on the availability of teachers, demands and time tabling.

IV.

Fieldwork Placement

(1) Nature and Objectives of Fieldwork Placement

The fieldwork placement is an integral part of social work education with the emphasis on learning through practicum. The student being placed in real life work situation, and under guidance of fieldwork supervisor, is expected to deliver services commensurate with professional requirement.

The fieldwork placement gives students opportunities to combine theory and practice, particularly in:

- ☐ Demonstrating social work principles and values;
- ☐ Testing out theories and models;
- ☐ Developing practice skills.

It also provides an opportunity for students to:

- ☐ Enhance self-understanding;
- ☐ Develop a personal style of work, within the bounds of professional practice.

If a student is working with a team or in a secondary setting, he/she is also expected to engage in inter-disciplinary collaboration with others and polish his/her teamwork skills.

(2) Structure of Fieldwork Placement

BSWFT students are required to undertake 100 hours of placement preparation workshops and two periods of fieldwork practice for 900 hours.

Summer Block Placement

This is a ten-week “block placement” that takes place from June to August of the third year of study. In this placement, the students work five days a week in the agency. Students can also consider undertaking this summer block placement in overseas countries or Mainland China and they have to go through the selection process in meeting the special requirements.

Concurrent placement

This is made up of twenty eight weeks, during term time, usually from the end of September to early April during the student's final year of study. The students will mostly work on Tuesdays and Wednesdays in their placement agencies and attend classes during the rest of the week. However, flexibility will be allowed to rearrange the duty time due to the special requirement of the serving agency and job duties.

(3) Information of Field Placement

The design of the Fieldwork placement is such that individual students will, as far as possible, experience variety in different settings, dealing with a wide range of problems and situations, and have opportunities to learn how to use at least two social work practice methods. Placements are classified according to the setting and nature of work, such as:

- ☐ Family Services
- ☐ Medical Social Services
- ☐ Services for Children & Youth
- ☐ Rehabilitation Services
- ☐ Elderly Services
- ☐ Community Development Services
- ☐ Multicultural Social Work Services
- ☐ School Social Work Services

Students may be placed alone or in a unit of two or three students. In both instances, a Fieldwork supervisor will be responsible for the field teaching. In fieldwork placements, the supervisor can either be a fieldwork supervisor employed by the University or an agency staff member appointed to act as such by the agency. The field supervisor will hold regular individual and group supervisory meeting with the students in planning their assignments, discussing their work and making ongoing assessments of the students' performance.

Generally speaking, all placements are concerned with the same broad areas of learning/teaching i.e. knowledge, skills and attitudes. But as students do go through different learning stages during the process of training and education, their needs at different stages require special consideration. Hence the learning/teaching goals of the first placement do differ somewhat from those of the final one.

The emphasis of the first placement is to help students to acquaint themselves with social work values and assumptions, to embark on a process of continuous self-assessment and self-analysis for the purpose of learning, to develop a professional stance and attitude in their work and to acquire some basic social work skills. As beginning student workers, students are expected to learn how to establish their role in the agency, start to build up their knowledge on community resources and attempt to apply what is learnt in class to the field situation. They have also to learn listening, observation, organizing, planning and relating skills. They have to start developing a systematic approach towards exploration, analysis, intervention and evaluation.

The final placement serves as a transition in role-learning from being a student social worker to a full-fledged social worker. Students are encouraged to develop self-responsibility and greater sophistication in their work. They are expected to have consolidated the knowledge and experience gained in their previous placements. They have to take more initiative and use their judgment and personal abilities in carrying out their work systematically and independently. They have also to be prepared to cope with work pressure and deal with emergency and crisis situations. Students should be aware of their own strengths and weaknesses and be ready to make continuous efforts to further develop in professional competence after graduation.

(4) Assessment procedures for field placement

Student's performance in the fieldwork will be evaluated and assessed by the fieldwork supervisor throughout the placement.

When placement ends, a student has to round up his/her task assignments in the agency properly, following the administrative requirements of the placement agency. The student should complete and submit all agency records before the end of placement. Relevant written assignments to the fieldwork supervisor should be submitted not later than two weeks upon the completion of placement period.

Student is required to complete the "Student's Review of the Placement Experience Report" and submit it to the fieldwork supervisor before doing the final evaluation.

The "Student Evaluation Report" should be prepared by the fieldwork supervisor within a month after the end of placement. The fieldwork supervisor should discuss with the student about the content and result of the evaluation. The report should be submitted to the Director of Field Instruction on time as required.

If the student fails to finish and hand in written assignments within two weeks after placement ends, he/she is deemed to be unable to complete the placement properly, and a failure grade would be given.

The fieldwork mark given by the Fieldwork Supervisor is a tentative mark only. It will be reviewed in consideration with the details in the evaluation report, including whatever is written down by the students, and endorsed by the Internal Examiners for Field Instruction. Recommendations given by the Internal Examiner (other teaching staff in the Department) are the "final mark".

Failure in field practice

A student who fails in a placement is normally required to undertake another period of fieldwork practice to make up for the failure. If he/she fails again, he/she may be required to discontinue. If a fieldwork supervisor finds that a student is at risk of failing, he/she should give early warning to the student, at the mid-placement evaluation or sooner, specifying the areas that need to be improved and stating clearly the expectations. He/she may also keep the Director of Field Instruction informed of the situation. At the end of the placement period, if a fieldwork supervisor decides to fail a student, he/she must let the student know as soon as possible.

During the placement period, a student may be discontinued from fieldwork placement and be given a failure grade if he/she displays one or more of the following kinds of behavior:

- ☐ Behavior so damaging to others that his/her immediate removal from placement is necessary protect the agency, the community, the student and/or clients. Examples of such are physically and/or psychologically abusing a client; extremely inappropriate behavior which is disruptive to the reputation or functioning of the agency and/or to its clients; illegal or immoral behavior.
- ☐ A recurrent series of irresponsible and/or inappropriate behavior with no signs of improvement despite repeated assistance; verbal and written warning from the fieldwork supervisor over a reasonable period of time. An example is chronic absenteeism from work and/or supervision.

A student who has failed his/her fieldwork placement because of the above-mentioned behavior may not be offered another placement opportunity.

A student who objects to be given a failure mark by the fieldwork supervisor or disagrees with not being offered a chance to repeat after being discontinued from placement under circumstances stipulated above, may make an appeal to the Department Head and request for a review. However, he/she should first of all consult the Director of Field Instruction.

Students should consult the 'Fieldwork Placement Handbook' for a more detailed description of the contents and requirements of fieldwork placements.

V.

Programme Coordination

In order to attain better coordination of the different aspects of the B.S.W. Programme, there is a Programme Director who oversees different aspects of the Programme. For this academic year, Prof. NG Siu Man is the B.S.W. Programme Director. He will handle all issues concerning the Programme. Comments and suggestions concerning the contents of the Programme should be channeled to him. And, Dr. Johnson Cheung is our B.S.W. Deputy Programme Director.

Prof. Ng Siu Man

Dr. Johnson Cheung

Furthermore, the day-in and day-out administrative arrangements of the BSW programme are carried out by our administrative team, with the following members: Ms. Karol Cheung is the Programme Secretary, and Miss Katherine Wong and Mr. Sam Lee are our Programme Assistants.

VI.

Policies on Learning

University education is different from that in secondary school. With the assistance of the teachers, students are expected to learn to become adults who are responsible to and take initiative for their own learning. However, to promote positive learning attitudes among students, some principles have to be observed. The followings are Department policies relating to student learning:

- (1) Classroom attendance is an integral aspect of a student's learning. The complexity of social work practice cannot be effectively learned through independent study. Students are expected to attend all classes and be on time. For some courses, in particular those that adopt experiential learning approaches, attendance of lectures is compulsory. There will be a system of penalty as stated in respective course outlines.
- (2) Tutorial/Seminar/workshop attendance is compulsory. Roll-call and sanctions for unreasonable lateness beyond 15 minutes will be carried out. Regarding absence from tutorials/seminars/ workshops, students should explain to the concerned course teachers in writing. If possible, prior notice should be given for reasonable absence. In case of illness, a medical certificate is required. For absence which is unexplained or unsatisfactorily explained, deduction of marks will be resulted. A minimum attendance rate of tutorials/seminars/workshops is stated in respective course outlines.
- (3) Students are expected to take responsibility for adding or dropping courses within the designated period as outlined by the university. The Programme Office will not manage course registrations on behalf of students. Late registration requests will not be accommodated unless accompanied by very strong justifications and validated supporting documents. In such cases, penalties may also apply under exceptional circumstances. Your cooperation in adhering to these guidelines is essential.
- (4) For most of the courses, students are expected to submit their assignments via Turnitin @ Moodle system. This system will detect any plagiarized materials. For some courses, teachers may require students to submit the hard copies of their assignments. Please follow the instructions according to the respective course outlines.
- (5) Regarding submissions after the deadline, 10% of mark per calendar day will be deducted, for up to seven calendar days. No marks will be given for assignments that are handed in one week after the deadline, but the teachers concerned will provide feedback on the paper.

- (6) No drinking or eating is allowed inside classrooms, except drinking bottles of water and cups of coffee or tea.
- (7) All mobile phones and pagers must be switched off during lectures and seminars/workshops to facilitate class attendance and concentration.

VII.

Performance Pledge from Teaching Staff

Teaching and learning are mutual processes through which the commitment of teachers, as knowledge providers, and students, as learners, is expected for actualizing the educational objectives. As responsible teachers concerned to upkeep good teaching practice, the teaching staff are committed to the following basic performance pledge:

- (1) Teachers will provide students with updated knowledge and references on subjects they are responsible to teach.
- (2) At appropriate time or upon request, teachers will arrange time to discuss students' assignments with them, individually or in groups.
- (3) Teachers will provide prompt feedback to students on their assignments when they are returned.

VIII.

Tips for Studying in University

(1) Time Management:

Using time efficiently and effectively in the engagement of different academic and social activities is a big challenge for university students. Use a planner to plan your daily, weekly and monthly schedule reasonably. Stick to the schedule as much as possible.

(2) Note-taking in Lectures:

Taking notes in lectures can be frustrating. Read the relevant materials before the lectures. You will absorb the concepts and ideas more clearly when the teachers talk about the points that you have already gone through.

(3) Building your Studying Skills:

Some students have difficulties in concentrating in class and understanding materials studied. This can lead to prolonged and unproductive study hours, anxiety and sleep deprivation. Do not study in places where you will easily be distracted (e.g. noisy, poorly lit places). Find a place where your eyes and body do not feel strain. Have all the supplies you need for study (e.g. dictionary, papers) on hand.

(4) Writing Academic Papers:

The styles and requirements of writing academic papers in university are quite different from those in secondary school. An academic paper basically requires integration of theories/concepts into the text. Students with weak writing skills are strongly encouraged to seek out assistance from the Centre for Applied English Studies (<https://www.caes.hku.hk>).

- (a) Academic Writing Workshop
- (b) Internet Resources on Writing
- (c) Writing Support
- (d) General Language Advising

(5) Course Policy

Penalty for late submission

All assignments should be submitted on time. According to the Departmental regulations, late submission of assignment will receive the following penalties:

Late for	% of marks to be deducted
1 day	10%
2 days	20%
3 days	30%
4 days	40%
5 days	50%
6 days	60%
7 days	70%
More than 7 days	No mark will be given

Penalty on late submission of assignment for re-assessment of failed paper

If a student fails a particular paper, and if re-assessment is allowed by means of a resubmission of assignment, the student must submit the assignment for re-assessment on or before the due date. No mark will be given to late paper unless prior approval is sought from the teacher of the course.

Academic conduct

The University Regulations on academic dishonesty will be strictly enforced! Please check the University Statement on plagiarism on the website:

<http://www.hku.hk/plagiarism/>.

Academic dishonesty is behavior in which a deliberately fraudulent mis-representation is employed in an attempt to gain undeserved intellectual credit, either for oneself or for another. It includes, but is not necessarily limited to, the following types of cases:

❑ Plagiarism

According to the HKU policy <http://www.hku.hk/plagiarism/> "Plagiarism is defined as the unacknowledged use, as one's own, of work of another person, whether or not such work has been published."

- i) The representation of someone else's ideas as if they are one's own. Where the arguments, data, designs, etc., of someone else are being used in a paper, report, oral presentation, or similar academic project, this fact must be made explicitly clear by citing the appropriate references. The references must fully indicate the extent to which any parts of the project are not one's own work. Paraphrasing of someone else's ideas is still using someone else's ideas, and must be acknowledged. According to the assessment guidelines on generative AI from the Teaching and Learning Innovation Centre (pp. 16), while citing AI generated language models like ChatGPT, detailed information about the model's specific version, its training data, and the responsible organization should be provided. For in-text citations, it is recommended to include the name of the organization, such as OpenAI, and the year of publication. The language model's title (for instance, ChatGPT), its version number, the responsible organization (like Open AI), and the URL to access the model should all be included in the reference list entry. In order to maintain clients' confidential data and in line with the ethical practice of the profession and the requirements of the personal data (Privacy) Ordinance, 1995, which are reiterated in the social work fieldwork placement handbook (pp.16), it is prohibited to use the AI generated language models for fieldwork courses.

- ii) Unauthorized Collaboration on Out-of-Class Projects - The representation of work as solely one's own when in fact it is the result of a joint effort. Where a candidate for a degree or other award uses the work of another person or persons without due acknowledgment.

Penalty

1. The relevant Board of Examiners may impose a penalty in relation to the seriousness of the offense.
2. The relevant Board of Examiners may report the candidate to the Senate, where there is prima facie evidence of an intention to deceive and where sanctions beyond those in (1) might be invoked.

☐ Dishonesty in collaborative work

Where a candidate for a degree or other award represents his/her work as solely one's own when in fact it is the result of a joint effort of a group of persons constitutes dishonesty and will thus be penalised.

☐ Completing assignments for others

The department does treasure mutual support among students. Yet, it does not mean a student can complete assignment for another classmate. Even the act is of good intention, both students will be penalised for such act.

The relevant Board of Examiners may impose a penalty in relation to the seriousness of the offence. The relevant Board of Examiners may report the candidate to the Senate, where there is prima facie evidence of an intention to deceive and where sanctions beyond those in point 4.3(a) might be invoked.

❑ Important note to students sitting examinations/quizzes

Students are reminded that “all electronic devices MUST be switched off and put under the chair/on your desk throughout the examination/quizzes in a position visible to the invigilators. Make sure that you do not have any printed/written matter, mobile phone, or any other electronic/communication/sound-making devices in your pocket or on your body throughout the examination/quizzes. Unless you have obtained the prior permission of an examiner or invigilator, you are not allowed to access the content of your bag at any time during the examination/quizzes. Students do not comply with the above-mentioned instructions may be disqualified.

(6) Preparation for Examination:

Examinations are a primary source of stress for students. Teachers expect students to answer questions critically. So learning exam-writing strategies is important. Keep up with your readings throughout the semester. Do not cram your studying into one or two night(s) before the examinations. Group study with classmates can be an effective method for in-depth learning. Remember to take reasonable study breaks.

(7) Examinations Results:

Examination results are determined by the respective Board of Examiners. There shall be no appeal against the results of examinations and all other forms of assessment. Students may however request checking of assessment results on grounds of procedural irregularities. Please refer to the Procedures for Checking of Assessment Results of Taught Courses (document 111/511) posted at HKU website:

http://www.exam.hku.hk/pdf/111_511amend.pdf

Last but not least, students should also go through the relevant regulations and notice to students sitting University examinations stipulated by Examinations Unit at HKU website:

<http://www.hku.hk/exam/>

(8) Degree Audit:

To make sure everything is on the right track with your studies, you can run the Degree Audit in SIS to check your progress. It is a comprehensive system to help you monitor your progress in fulfilling study requirements. To access “Degree audit”, go to HKU Portal > SIS Menu > Academic Records > My degree Audit. There is also a User Guide for reference:

https://inraweb.hku.hk/reserved_1/sis_student/sis/SIS-reference-materials.html

IX.

Staff-Student Consultation

Communication, formal and informal, between students and teachers is important for facilitating mutual understanding and nourishing mutual trust. In order to promote frank exchange and open communication between students and teachers, the staff-student consultative meeting is arranged at least once in each semester, as an open forum for sharing between students and teachers on different issues relating to students' learning. Students are encouraged to bring up their different concerns in the meetings, while teachers can also share their views on related issues. These meetings are formally arranged. Informal exchange between students and teachers is also much encouraged.

Academic Advising & Personal Tutorial System

Academic Advising

At HKU, academic advising involves helping students to understand the aims of University education, the culture and ethos of learning, the available educational options and the paths that could be taken so that students can draw their own roadmaps to achieve their goals and monitor their own progress. Academic advising should result in students' greater satisfaction with their academic experience, better self-understanding and a sense of success in the achievement of personal and academic goals.

Faculty-based Academic Advising

Upon admission to HKU, all First-year undergraduate students will be assigned to a Faculty Academic Adviser (FAA) from his/her Home Faculty to support the students throughout the course of their study in the University. Students are expected to take the initiative to contact your FAA and to meet with his or her FAA ONCE every semester in their first year of study to discuss different academic issues.

For details of academic advising, please visit the website of Academic Advising Office (AAO) at <http://aao.hku.hk>.

Personal Tutorial System

In order to assist a student's adjustment to university life academically and socially, each freshman is assigned an academic adviser. Students are required to meet with their adviser at least once every semester in their first year of study to discuss academic issues. For students other than the freshmen, personal tutors (usually members of the Department's teaching staff) are assigned. The main role of the personal tutor is to assist students to tune into the study life of the University. It is believed that any happenings in the environment of the student will affect his/her university life. A student's personal tutor is always ready to discuss with the student anything that he/she thinks is affecting his/her study.

Privacy and confidentiality are basic principles observed in the sharing between the student and his/her personal tutor. Informality is encouraged for these meetings. While the personal tutors will initiate the first meeting with his/her tutees, students are encouraged to take the initiative to approach their personal tutors.

The Programme Director will liaise with the personal tutor concerned in handling any study issues related to a student that require special attention.

The academic advisers and personal tutors for students in the first and second year of study are usually teachers involved in first and second year teaching. The personal tutors for the third year students are the respective 'Practice laboratory' teachers. The fourth year students will be assigned to a new tutor to broaden their contacts with other teaching staff in the Department.

XI.

<http://www.cedars.hku.hk/cedars-financial-resources>

Other Subsidies

The Department provides subsidy to students undertaking overseas placements and Finland study tour. Students will be selected based on their academic results and performance at the selection interview.

XII.

Supportive Services in the University

Besides support within the Department, there are also several services in the University that provide assistance to students. The main ones are:

(1) Health Services:

The University Health Service (UHS) located at 2/F & 3/F. of Meng Wah Complex provides primary medical and dental care for students. Subsidized hospital care is available (excluding maternity cases) to full-time students in the public wards of Government hospitals. There is also a Students' Medical Relief Fund of which students can apply for in case of financial difficulties from medical problems. Detailed information is available from the website: <http://www.uhs.hku.hk>

(2) Financial Assistance:

Supplementing the Government scheme of grants and loans for students, the University also operates a considerable number of bursaries and loans aimed at relieving students with genuine financial hardship. Students with genuine needs can apply for such assistance through the Centre of Development and Resources for Students (CEDARS) by submitting an application to the CEDARS by a specified date in September. But those with urgent needs may apply for emergency assistance any time during the year.

Their information is available from the website: <http://cedars.hku.hk>

(3) Physical Education and Sports:

The Institute of Human Performance (IHP) of the University is responsible to promote health and physical fitness among students. There are three sports centres managed by the IHP, namely, Flora Ho Sports Centre, Lindsay Ride Sports Centre and Stanley Ho Sports Centre. These centres are differently equipped with facilities such as out-door swimming pools, sports halls, multi-purpose and sports specific areas, fitness and weight training rooms, athletics stadium with a synthetic running track, floodlit artificial turf pitch, golf driving bays, softball diamond, and tennis courts, etc. Regular physical education, sport and wellness programmes are provided to students. Information can be obtained from the Flora Ho Sports Centre and on the following website: <http://www.hku.hk/ihp>.

(4) Personal Development and Counselling:

Adopting a whole person approach in education, the University stresses the importance of learning about life, academically and non-academically. Counselling and Person Enrichment Section (CoPE) under CEDARS is committed to providing opportunities for students to develop their potentials and creativity. Different services, including individual counselling and consultation; developmental and therapeutic programmes; life skills programmes; psychological testing; learning clinic; digital learning, living and leadership training are provided to students. The CEDARS's office is located on the 4/F., Meng Wah Complex. Their information is available from the website: <http://cedars.hku.hk>.

(5) Careers and Placement:

The main mission of the Careers and Placement Section under CEDARS (<http://www.cedars.hku.hk/careers/home>) is to provide careers information and guidance to students. Its core services include: careers education, placement, surveys, forums and careers library and consultation.

(6) Protection from Sexual Harassment:

As an equal opportunity employer and institution, the University has zero tolerance towards discrimination and sexual harassment. In order to protect students from being sexually harassed, each department has an officer responsible to handle related issues. The Equal Opportunity Advisors of our Department are Prof. Carrie K.W. Li (Tel: 3917-2091, li.carrie@hku.hk) and Prof. Paul W. C. Wong (Tel: 3917-5029, paulw@hku.hk). Students are encouraged to approach them for any issues related to sexual harassment.

(7) Accommodation Service:

The CEDARS runs a small-scale service to assist students seeking off-campus accommodation. For details, please refer to their website: <http://cedars.hku.hk>.

For more detailed introduction of different services available within the University for students, please refer to the 'Undergraduate Handbook for Full-time Students 2025-26' at <https://handbook.hku.hk/ug/full-time-2025-26/about-the-handbook.html>.

Code of Practice for Registered Social Workers

PREAMBLE

In accordance with Section 10 of the Social Workers Registration Ordinance (Chapter 505), the Social Workers Registration Board approves and issues this Code of Practice for Registered Social Workers "for the purpose of providing practical guidance in respect of the professional conduct of registered social workers (including ethical matters relating to such conduct)".

The primary objective of the Code of Practice is for the protection of clients⁽¹⁾ and the members of society at large. To enhance public trust and confidence in the social work profession, the issue of a code of practice is essential.

This document serves as a guide to the everyday conduct of social workers. Under section 11 of Social workers Registration Ordinance, this Code of Practice will be used as a basis for adjudication when the conduct of a social worker is alleged to have violated the standards specified in this document. It represents standards of ethical behaviour for social workers in professional relationships with clients, with colleagues, with agency, with profession, and with society as a whole. It is applicable to any professional conduct of social workers.

Social workers are required to cooperate in the implementation of this Code of Practice and abide by any disciplinary rulings based on it. They should also keep abreast of the laws of Hong Kong which may be amended from time to time. Social workers should take adequate and appropriate measures and action to prevent, discourage, correct, or expose the unethical conduct of other social workers. They should also take reasonable and appropriate measures to monitor all staff under their supervision and other persons assisting them in delivering service not to violate the Code of Practice or jeopardize the interest of clients⁽²⁾.

PART 1 – BASIC VALUES AND BELIEFS

1. Social workers' primary mission is to help people in need and to strive to address social problems.
2. Social workers respect the unique value and dignity of every human being irrespective of one's ethnicity, colour, family/social/national origin, nationality, culture, birth, sex, age, language, beliefs, political and other opinion, family/social/economic status, disability, educational attainment, contribution to society, or sexual orientation.
3. Social workers believe that individuals have the potential to develop and thus accepts a responsibility to encourage and facilitate the self-realization of individuals with due regard to the interest of others.
4. Social workers accept responsibility to advance social justice and to safeguard the cause of human rights.
5. Social workers believe that each society, regardless of its form, should provide maximum benefits to its members.
6. Social workers accept responsibility to update, upgrade and devote their professional knowledge and skills to the betterment of individuals and society, with the aim to empower people to act on their own behalf as far as possible.
7. Social workers recognise the central importance of human relationships and seek to strengthen relationships among people in a purposeful effort to promote, maintain and enhance the well-being of individuals, families, social groups, organizations and communities for the prevention and relief of hardship and suffering.

PART 2 – PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICES

Related to Clients

Responsibility

1. Social workers have a primary responsibility to the clients.

Cultural Awareness

2. Social workers should recognise the ethnic and cultural diversity of the communities being served.
3. Social workers should be acquainted with and sensitive to the cultures of clients and appreciate the differences among them in respect of their ethnicity, national origin, nationality, religion and custom.

Informed Decision and Self-determination

4. Social workers acknowledge a responsibility to inform clients of their rights and help them to obtain appropriate services. Clients should also be informed of, as far as possible, obligations and possible consequences associated with services provided to them.
5. Social workers should clearly inform clients, who are using services under compulsion, of their rights as well as the limits of their rights and assist them in attaining as much autonomy as possible.
6. Taking into account the limit of clients' rights to self-determination, social workers should encourage clients to participate as far as possible in decision-making about the goals, alternatives and services available to them.

Use of Information and Principles of Confidentiality

7. Social workers should respect clients' right to privacy and confidentiality of their information, subject to other statutory requirements including, in particular the Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance (Cap.486). They should also, as far as possible, fully inform clients of the limits of confidentiality in a given situation, the purpose for which information is obtained, and how it may be used.
8. In disclosing case materials, social workers should make necessary and responsible efforts to remove all identifying information and to seek consent, as far as possible, from the client and the relevant agency.
9. Social workers should take precautions to ensure and maintain the confidentiality of information transmitted to other parties through the use of electronic media. Disclosure of identifying information should be avoided whenever possible.
10. Social workers should inform clients of the limitation and risks associated with such services provided via electronic media.
11. Social workers should not discuss confidential information in any setting unless privacy can be ensured.
12. Social workers should protect the confidentiality of clients during legal proceedings to the extent permitted by law.

Conflicts of Interest

13. Social workers should not abuse the worker-client relationship in pursuit of personal interests.

Sexual Relationship

14. Social workers should under no circumstances be engaged in any sexual activities or sexual contacts with clients, whether such activities or contacts are consensual or forced.
15. Social workers should not provide clinical services to individuals with whom they have had a prior sexual relationship.

Continuation of Service

16. If and when a fee for service is required, social workers should ensure that clients would not be denied timely services they need because of financial constraints.

Billing Practice

17. Social workers should establish and maintain billing practices that accurately reflect the nature and extent of services provided. Those being engaged in private or independent practice should also enable such billing practices to identify who has provided the service in the practice setting.
18. Social workers should clearly inform clients of all fee rates and charges before services are delivered.

Related to Colleagues

Respect

19. Social workers should pay due respect to different opinions and practices of other social workers, other professionals and volunteers. Any suggestion or criticism should be expressed and conflicts resolved in a responsible manner.

Interdisciplinary Collaboration

20. Social workers should discharge duties and treat co-workers, irrespective of which organizations they are from, in a fair and professional manner.
21. Social workers should collaborate as far as possible with other social workers and colleagues from other disciplines to enhance service effectiveness.
22. Social workers who are members of an interdisciplinary team should participate in and contribute to decisions that affect the well-being of clients by drawing on the perspectives, values, and experiences of the social work profession. They should induce and help the interdisciplinary team as far as possible to clearly define the professional and ethical obligations of the team as a whole and of individual team-members.
23. Social workers on whom a team decision raises ethical concerns should attempt to resolve the disagreement through appropriate channels. If the disagreement cannot be resolved, social workers should pursue other appropriate avenues to address their concerns consistent with clients' well-being.

Supervision and Training

24. Social workers, who provide supervision or professional consultation, should possess and maintain necessary knowledge, skills and methodology through appropriate education, training, consultation and research to facilitate them to perform the tasks in professional supervision and training competently. Social workers should provide training or instructions only within their areas of knowledge or competence.
25. Social workers who provide supervision should recognise a supervisor's educational, supportive, developmental and work-focused role and should not abuse the professional relationship with supervisees for any interests.
26. Social workers who provide supervision should monitor their supervisees to act in accordance with this Code of Practice.

Consultation

27. Social workers should seek the advice and counsel from colleagues whenever such consultation is in the best interests of clients.
28. Social workers should seek consultation only from colleagues who have demonstrated knowledge, expertise, and competence related to the subject of the consultation.
29. Social workers, for the purpose of consulting with colleagues about clients, should provide information on clients on a need-to-know basis.

Clients' Right of Choice

30. Social workers respect clients' right of choice. With due respect to other agencies and colleagues, they should not solicit the clients of other social workers.

Communications between Co-workers

31. Without the explicit permission of the author of the communications between co-workers, social workers should not convey to clients any contents of such communications that are beyond the scope of the clients' personal particulars.

Sexual Relationship

32. Social workers who function as supervisors or educators should not be engaged in any sexual activities or sexual contacts with supervisees, students, or trainees over whom social workers exercises professional authority.

Related to Agency

33. Social workers should be responsible to the employing agency for the efficient and effective performance of professional duties.
34. Social workers should act constructively and responsibly to influence and to improve policies, procedures, and practice of their employing agencies in order to continuously improve the quality of service and to prevent social workers from violating this Code of Practice when enforcing agency policies.
35. Social workers should make clear in any public statements or when undertaking public activities whether they are acting in a personal capacity or on behalf of a group or an organization.
36. Social workers should not use institutional affiliation to recruit clients for private practice without the consent of the institution.

Related to Profession

Professional Responsibilities

37. Social workers should maintain honesty, integrity and responsibility in professional practice.
38. Social workers should uphold the values and ethics, and advance the knowledge of the profession.
39. Social workers should bring to the attention of appropriate bodies any violation of this Code of Practice that may put the interests of clients at risk, and should be ready to defend other social workers against unjust accusations.

Competence

40. Social workers should provide services and represent themselves as competent only within the boundaries of their education, training, license, certification, professional consultation, supervised experience, or other relevant professional experience.
41. Social workers should provide services in substantive areas or use intervention techniques or approaches that are new to them only after being engaged in appropriate studies, training, professional consultation, and supervision by people who are competent in those interventions or techniques.
42. When generally recognised standards do not exist with respect to an emerging area of practice, social workers should exercise careful judgment and take responsible steps, including appropriate education, research, training, professional consultation, and supervision, to ensure the competence in their work and to protect clients from harm.

Respect

43. In criticizing the profession, social workers should do so in a responsible and constructive manner.

Representation

44. Social workers should make no misrepresentation or false claim as to personal particulars, professional qualifications, credentials, education, competence, nature of service, and method of service or results to be achieved.

Independent Practice

45. Social workers who are engaged in private or independent practice should practise only within their areas of competence and offer suitable referrals when clients' needs go beyond their areas of competence. Any publicity on their practice should be made based on the actual qualifications, experience and expertise.

Professional Development

46. Social workers should accept responsibility for upgrading their professional skills and knowledge.
47. Social workers should take responsibility to help those who are entering the profession to establish, strengthen and develop their ethics, values, skills and knowledge.

Call to Duty

48. Social workers should respond to calls to duty⁽³⁾ when an explicit request is made and when a call is made specifically for social workers on the spot to render certain service under specific circumstances.

Related to Society

49. Social workers recognise the need to bring to the attention of policy makers or the general public any policies, procedures or activities of governments, societies or agencies which create, contribute to, or militate against the relief of hardship and suffering.
50. Social workers recognise the need to advocate changes in the formulation of policies and legislation to improve social conditions, to promote social justice and general welfare of the society. Social workers also recognise the need to contribute to the implementation of policies for human welfare and should not allow one's knowledge, skills or experience to be used to further unjust policies or inhuman practices.
51. Social workers recognise the need to prevent and eliminate discrimination, and the need to strive for a more reasonable distribution of resources and to ensure that all persons should have equal opportunity to access to the necessary resources and services.
52. Social workers recognise the need to promote conditions that encourage respect for diversity of cultures in the society.
53. Social workers recognise the need to encourage informed participation by the public in formulating and developing social policies and institutions.

Notes

1. "Clients" refers to direct service recipients currently receiving individual, group services or programme activities provided by social workers.
2. "Interest of clients" – Social workers should make professional judgement after considering and striking a balance among the interests of clients and those of other related bodies (including family members, agency, community and society, etc.).
3. "Call to duty" in this context is not applicable to calls made through mass media to social workers at large.

(Remark: Chinese version prevails over English version if there is any discrepancy.)

Ethics in Social Work, Statement of Principles

1. Preface

Ethical awareness is a fundamental part of the professional practice of social workers. Their ability and commitment to act ethically is an essential aspect of the quality of the service offered to those who use social work services.

The purpose of the work of IASSW and IFSW on ethics is to promote ethical debate and reflection in the member organisations, among the providers of social work in member countries, as well as in the schools of social work and among social work students. Some ethical challenges and problems facing social workers are specific to particular countries; others are common. By staying at the level of general principles, the joint IASSW and IFSW statement aims to encourage social workers across the world to reflect on the challenges and dilemmas that face them and make ethically informed decisions about how to act in each particular case. Some of these problem areas include:

- The fact that the loyalty of social workers is often in the middle of conflicting interests.
- The fact that social workers function as both helpers and controllers.
- The conflicts between the duty of social workers to protect the interests of the people with whom they work and societal demands for efficiency and utility.
- The fact that resources in society are limited.

This document takes as its starting point the definition of social work adopted separately by the IFSW and IASSW at their respective General Meetings in Montreal, Canada in July 2000 and then agreed jointly in Copenhagen in May 2001 (section 2). This definition stresses principles of human rights and social justice. The next section (3) makes reference to the various declarations and conventions on human rights that are relevant to social work, followed by a statement of general ethical principles under the two broad headings of human rights and dignity and social justice (section 4). The final section introduces some basic guidance on ethical conduct in social work, which it is expected will be elaborated by the ethical guidance and in various codes and guidelines of the member organisations of IFSW and IASSW.

2. Definition of Social Work

The social work profession promotes social change, problem solving in human relationships and the empowerment and liberation of people to enhance well-being. Utilising theories of human behaviour and social systems, social work intervenes at the points where people interact with their environments. Principles of human rights and social justice are fundamental to social work.

3. International Conventions

International human rights declarations and conventions form common standards of achievement, and recognise rights that are accepted by the global community. Documents particularly relevant to social work practice and action are:

- Universal Declaration of Human Rights
- The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights
- The International Covenant on Economic Social and Cultural Rights
- The Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Racial Discrimination
- The Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women
- The Convention on the Rights of the Child
- Indigenous and Tribal Peoples Convention (ILO convention 169)

4. Principles

4.1 Human Rights and Human Dignity

Social work is based on respect for the inherent worth and dignity of all people, and the rights that follow from this. Social workers should uphold and defend each person's physical, psychological, emotional and spiritual integrity and well-being. This means:

- i. Respecting the right to self-determination - Social workers should respect and promote people's right to make their own choices and decisions, irrespective of their values and life choices, provided this does not threaten the rights and legitimate interests of others.
- ii. Promoting the right to participation - Social workers should promote the full involvement and participation of people using their services in ways that enable them to be empowered in all aspects of decisions and actions affecting their lives.
- iii. Treating each person as a whole - Social workers should be concerned with the whole person, within the family, community, societal and natural environments, and should seek to recognise all aspects of a person's life.
- iv. Identifying and developing strengths – Social workers should focus on the strengths of all individuals, groups and communities and thus promote their empowerment.

4.2. Social Justice

Social workers have a responsibility to promote social justice, in relation to society generally, and in relation to the people with whom they work. This means:

- i. Challenging negative discrimination¹ - Social workers have a responsibility to challenge negative discrimination on the basis of characteristics such as ability, age, culture, gender or sex, marital status, socio-economic status, political opinions, skin colour, racial or other physical characteristics, sexual orientation, or spiritual beliefs.

¹ In some countries the term “discrimination” would be used instead of “negative discrimination”. The word negative is used here because in some countries the term “positive discrimination” is also used. Positive discrimination is also known as “affirmative action”. Positive discrimination or affirmative action means positive steps taken to redress the effects of historical discrimination against the groups named in clause 4.2.1 above.

- ii. Recognising diversity – Social workers should recognise and respect the ethnic and cultural diversity of the societies in which they practise, taking account of individual, family, group and community differences.
- iii. Distributing resources equitably – Social workers should ensure that resources at their disposal are distributed fairly, according to need.
- iv. Challenging unjust policies and practices – Social workers have a duty to bring to the attention of their employers, policy makers, politicians and the general public situations where resources are inadequate or where distribution of resources, policies and practices are oppressive, unfair or harmful.
- v. Working in solidarity - Social workers have an obligation to challenge social conditions that contribute to social exclusion, stigmatisation or subjugation, and to work towards an inclusive society.

5. Professional conduct

It is the responsibility of the national organisations in membership of IFSW and IASSW to develop and regularly update their own codes of ethics or ethical guidelines, to be consistent with the IFSW/ IASSW statement. It is also the responsibility of national organisations to inform social workers and schools of social work about these codes or guidelines.

Social workers should act in accordance with the ethical code or guidelines current in their country. These will generally include more detailed guidance in ethical practice specific to the national context. The following general guidelines on professional conduct apply:

- i. Social workers are expected to develop and maintain the required skills and competence to do their job.
- ii. Social workers should not allow their skills to be used for inhumane purposes, such as torture or terrorism.
- iii. Social workers should act with integrity. This includes not abusing the relationship of trust with the people using their services, recognising the boundaries between personal and professional life, and not abusing their position for personal benefit or gain.
- iv. Social workers should act in relation to the people using their services with compassion, empathy and care.
- v. Social workers should not subordinate the needs or interests of people who use their services to their own needs or interests.
- vi. Social workers have a duty to take necessary steps to care for themselves professionally and personally in the workplace and in society, in order to ensure that they are able to provide appropriate services.
- vii. Social workers should maintain confidentiality regarding information about people who use their services. Exceptions to this may only be justified on the basis of a greater ethical requirement (such as the preservation of life).
- viii. Social workers need to acknowledge that they are accountable for their actions to the users of their services, the people they work with, their colleagues, their employers, the professional association and to the law, and that these accountabilities may conflict.

- ix. Social workers should be willing to collaborate with the schools of social work in order to support social work students to get practical training of good quality and up to date practical knowledge
- x. Social workers should foster and engage in ethical debate with their colleagues and employers and take responsibility for making ethically informed decisions.
- xi. Social workers should be prepared to state the reasons for their decisions based on ethical considerations, and be accountable for their choices and actions.
- xii. Social workers should work to create conditions in employing agencies and in their countries where the principles of this statement and those of their own national code (if applicable) are discussed, evaluated and upheld.
